

WOOD TYPES

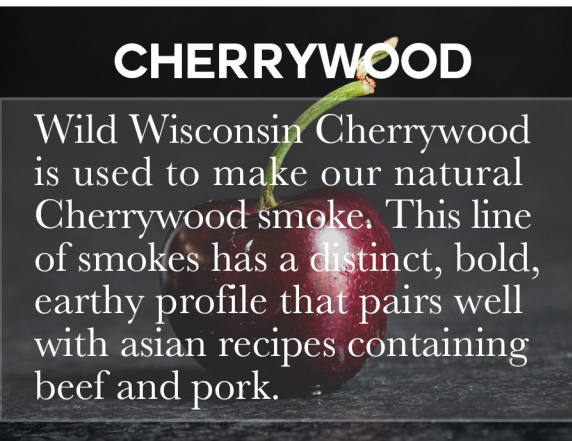

BEECHWOOD

Our Beech wood smoke is imported from Germany & further processed at our factory in the United States. This line of products has the distinct, robust flavor of traditional, old world style European smoke. Typically used for meat processing applications.

CHERRYWOOD

Wild Wisconsin Cherrywood is used to make our natural Cherrywood smoke. This line of smokes has a distinct, bold, earthy profile that pairs well with asian recipes containing beef and pork.

APPLEWOOD

Applewood is the strongest of all the fruitwoods, with a subtle sweet flavor and a slightly ashy finish. The lighter flavor of applewood makes it the perfect choice for poultry, lamb and pork.

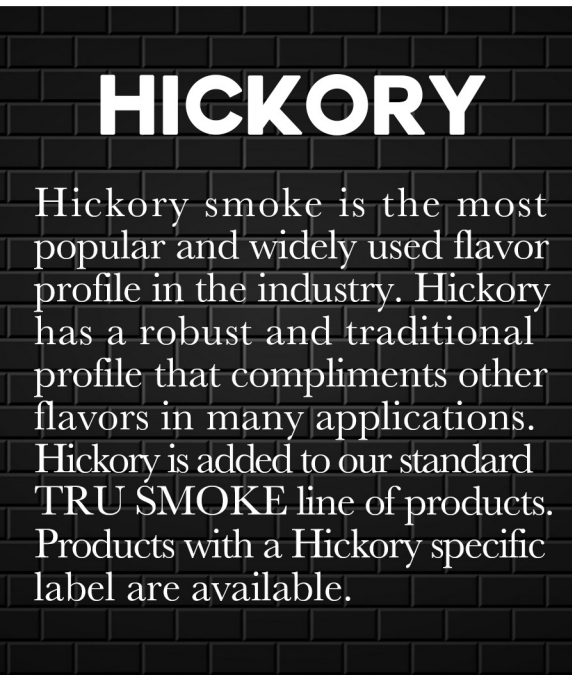

MAPLE

Hard maple has a mild, slightly sweet & smooth flavor. A versatile smoke with balanced flavor most often used for ham & bacon is perfect for cheese and vegetables too.

HICKORY

Hickory smoke is the most popular and widely used flavor profile in the industry. Hickory has a robust and traditional profile that compliments other flavors in many applications. Hickory is added to our standard TRU SMOKE line of products. Products with a Hickory specific label are available.

MESQUITE

Made from 100% Mesquite wood from Texas. Mesquite smoke has an intense, earthy, full bodied flavor characteristic of southern BBQ Best for dark meats including beef, pork and game.

OAK

Our 100% American Oak wood smoke has a slightly more acidic, tannic flavor profile for use in a variety of applications. This specific profile is typically used in beverages or sauces where an aged or oaked flavor is desired.
